Faculty of Economics,
Law and Social Sciences

BACHELOR (B.A.)

International Relations

CONTENT OF THE PROGRAMME

The BA International Relations deals with the cross-disciplinary dimensions of a changing world order. Subject areas are the growing interdependence of national political systems and economies, as well as the role of transnational governmental and non-governmental organisations. The degree programme is decidedly interdisciplinary, combining legal, social and economic perspectives.

As part of this interdisciplinary programme, students should acquire the basic scientific knowledge and skills in the field of international relations required for a successful career. To achieve this, students learn how to scientifically analyse major problems in international relations and how to strengthen their powers of judgement. The degree programme teaches fundamental contexts, concepts and approaches to international relations, and teaches logical, structured and critical approaches, thus enabling students to deal independently with the global challenges of our time.

PROFESSIONAL FIELDS

You will acquire interdisciplinary knowledge for professional activities, e.g., in public or private organisations such as academic and research institutions, inter- and supranational organizations, governmental administrations, non-governmental organisations, companies, associations, media or churches in an international context.

STRUCTURE OF THE DEGREE PROGRAMME

The Bachelor's degree programme at the University of Erfurt comprises a major and a minor subject as well as
