

Oxford Reference : Legal Notice

Users of Institutional Subscribers

If you are an end user of an institution which has subscribed to the Website, please note that your institution has entered into a contract with OUP which authorises your institution and you to access the Website subject to the terms of that contract.

In summary, the terms if that contract permits you to:

1. access the server by means of a secure network in order to search the Website and to view, retrieve, and display portions of the Website;
2. electronically save portions of Website; and
3. print out single copies of portions of the Website

subject always to any specific restrictions appearing within the Website in respect of illustrations in that Website.

Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph, you must NOT:

1. remove or alter the copyright notices or other means of identification or disclaimers as they appear on the Website;
2. systematically make printed or electronic copies of multiple extracts of the Website for any purpose except as permitted by law or as authorised by OUP;
3. display or distribute any part of the Website on any electronic network, including without limitation the Internet and the World Wide Web (other than the institution's secure network, where the Subscriber is an institution);
4. permit anyone to access or use of the Website (other than other users authorized by the institution, where the Subscriber is an institution); and
5. use all or any part of Website for any commercial use.

If you print off, copy or download any part of the Website in breach of this Legal notice, your right to use the Website will cease immediately and you must, at our option, return or destroy any copies of the materials you have made.