

WORLD RELATIONS/WELTBEZIEHUNGEN IN BORDERLINE SITUATIONS

Workshop by Luca Pellarin and João Lucas Tziminadis (Erfurt/Graz)
4th December 2020

Solomiya Husak 2020

How do extraordinary experiences and crises shape our world-relations? How does the awareness of a potential end of the world and the end of life intrude potential resonant self-world-relations? In two papers followed by a discussion the philosophers Luca Pellarin and João Tziminadis analyse two cultural answers to the problem of finiteness and the ideal forms of being in the world they prescribe.

Luca Pellarin: “Weltbeziehungen” at the Time of the End of the World. Christian and Jewish Eschatological Perspectives of the Late Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Century

João Lucas Tziminadis: Is there a Fountain of Youth? On Biomedical Expectations of Life Extension and the Lived Experience of the End

Discussion
