

JUDIT MAJOROSSY

CURRICULUM VITAE:

Judit Majorossy studied in Pécs, Budapest, and Bratislava. She received her PhD in Medieval Studies from the Department of Medieval Studies of CEU (and as a previous Marie-Curie fellow, with her doctoral dissertation received the title of European Doctorate in the Social History of Europe and the Mediterranean, too). She holds positions in different research projects: at the University of Pécs (project on comparative regional history), at the University of Budapest (individual research project on urban elites as well as on social topography and medieval usage of urban space), in the National Archives of Hungary (project on urban elite), in the Hungarian Academy of Sciences (historical town atlases), and in the Austrian Academy of Sciences (Visions of Community: Comparative Approaches to Ethnicity, Region and Empire in Christianity, Islam and Buddhism, 400–1600 CE). She was an invited scholar at the Institute of Advanced Studies at the University of Edinburgh (2008) and a Humboldt-fellow at the Institute of Comparative Urban History in Münster (2009–2010). She has taught at the History Department at the University of Vienna as an associate post-doctoral researcher of the Institut für Österreichische Geschichtsforschung. And she also was a visiting faculty at the ELTE (2011, 2012, 2015) in Budapest and at the CEU in Vienna (2021) with courses in historiography, in palaeography, and in late medieval urban and social (and religious) history. She is the editorial board member of the Korall Hungarian Social Historical Journal and the Urbs Hungarian Yearbook of Urban History, and the member of the Österreichischer Arbeitskreis für Stadtgeschichtsforschung. She has several publications in the field of late medieval social and religious life in Hungarian towns, edited several volumes and published the late medieval last wills of Pressburg in a two-volume source edition. Her recently edited work on Practising Community in Urban and Rural Eurasia (1000–1600) just came out by Brill (2021). Her book on Piety in Practice: Urban Religious Life and Communities in Late Medieval Pressburg (1400–1530) is also in print. Recently she is working on a regional comparative urban network project.
