

Workshop: Intersectional Approaches to Global Histories?

Monday, November 8, 2010

Universität Erfurt, Nordhäuser Straße 63, LG IV/D08

6 - 8 pm Lecture

Tiffany Ruby Patterson (Vanderbilt University)
"Moral Imagination As Standpoint: Race, Politics, and Progress in Hurston's Haiti"

Tuesday, November 9, 2010

Kleine Synagoge, Besprechungsraum, An der Stadtmünze 4/5, 99084 Erfurt

9.30 – 10am Welcome/Introduction

10 – 12am Tiffany Ruby Patterson (Vanderbilt University)
Discussion: Jared Hickman, "Globalization and the Gods, or the Political Theology of "Race", in: Early American Literature 45.1 (2010), pp. 145-182.

Noon - 2pm Lunch

2 – 3pm Kristin Reichel (Max Weber Collegium)
Bringing Gender in – The Gendered Dimension of the Social Policy of the EEC in the 1960s.

3 – 4pm Raphael Hörmann (University of Rostock)
"Jamaican-British Revolutionary" in: Robert Wedderburn: The Horrors of Slavery and Other Writings, ed. by Ian McCalman (Princeton, NJ/Kingston, Jamaica: Markus Wiener/Ian Randle, 1991), pp. 81-103.

4 – 4.30pm Coffee Break

4.30 - 5.30pm Patricia Wiegmann (Erfurt University)
Zora Neale Hurston, Tell my Horse: Voodoo and Life in Haiti and Jamaica. New York 1938.